Criticises School System.

Criticism was made by Mr. Whittaker of the present tendency to teach children in the schools things which they should learn in their homes. The speaker referred specifically to the teaching of domestic science. He de-clared that if more home life and home instruction were given children there would be less need for juvenile courts and boards of childrens guardians. Ninety-five Washingtonians were registered at the Baltimore conference, among them J. L. Solly, manager of the board of childrens guardians, who also spoke at last night's meeting. He declared that Washington has only one visitor to every 320 children who are wards of the board. In Boston, he pointed out, there is one visitor to every forty children wards. Mr. Sully urged the club to aid the board of chil-dren's guardians in obtaining authority dren's guardians in obtaining authority the grave of Gen. Joe Wheeler and the and funds for the employment of a larger force of visitors.

Others Who Spoke.

Others who spoke were George 8 Wilson, secretary of the board of char-ities; Mrs. Archibald Hopkins, Dr. F. J McKelway, secretary of the southern national child labor committee; C. W. Skinner, superintendent of the Industrial Home School; Miss Estelle Wheeler, superintendent of the Washington Diet Kitchen; Miss E. G. Fox, superintendent of the Instructive Visiting Nurse Society; Mrs. J. H. Finley, president of the Georgetown Social Center; Miss Bessie Kibbey of the diocesan special service, and Mrs. Walter S. Ufford. All of the speakers told of the various sessions of the conference which they attended. Walter S. Ufford, secretary of the Associated Charities and newly elected president of the Monday Evening Club, presided. It is expected that much of the information developed by the conference will be used by the club in the formation of reforms to be advocated when Congress again convenes.
